they've been called the "crack cocaine of gambling" and "electronic morphine".

I think part of the reason many complain is because of the general cost of living seems to be higher here than in most parts of the country.

For instance, you might consider a logo-design contest for a new product you're introducing.